Bev Jordan reporting on Prince Philip

OUR REPORTER AND

the Prince

By BEV JORDAN

Hills to Hawkesbury Editor and senior journalist Bev Jordan had just started her cadetship on an Essex newspaper in the UK when she was given the job of following Prince Philip when the Queen and Duke of Edinburgh visited town on a cold wet afternoon in 1978.

This is her story:

"I was the youngest journalist (the cub reporter) on the Thurrock Gazette when it was announced that Queen Elizabeth II would be visiting the Thameside theatre and library complex in Grays to unveil a special plaque.

"The News editor of the Gazette and the senior reporters would follow The Queen and I was given the job of following Prince Philip as he greeted the crowd waiting on the street. I definitely got the better deal. While the reporters following The Queen had to negotiate Royal security, VIPS, officials and the National Press pack, I had Prince Philip virtually to myself, as the photograph, by junior Gazette photographer Ian Billinghamurst, will attest.

There was no security, just me and The Prince wandering the length of Grays High Street with crowds, at times five-deep, the other side of a safety barrier lining the street showing their delight at the Royal visit.

HRH was great with the crowd and they absolutely loved having a chat with him. My job was to record what they said to Prince Philip and what he said to them.

It was raining and I had no way of juggling an umbrella, a notebook and a pen so I didn't bother with my umbrella and I certainly had to keep my distance from the Royal broly.

I was terrified of missing the brief to get quotes from the crowd and the Royal VIP so I had to think quickly of how to function with a very soggy notebook and a biro and hundreds of people.

There were no mobile phones in those days and I had no recording device.

My solution was to grab the name and number of at least five people in the crowd he spoke to (and who Ian got photographs of) and speak to them when I got back to the office. I had to engrave their details onto the soggy notepad.

They trusted my credentials because I wore a circular pink paper tag attached with a safety pin to my black cardigan that said PRESS. When we finally finished the walk (fortunately close to the Thurrock Gazette office) I raced inside, grabbed a very soft pencil and gently rubbed it over my engraved notes. It was like creating a brass rubbing.

Fortunately, every single name and phone number I had etched was revealed and I then spent afternoon phoning around and finding out what they had said to the Prince and confirming what he had said back.

He thanked people for standing in the pouring rain waiting, checked that they weren't too cold and wet and suggested they had a good cup of tea when they got home.

If I hadn't been so terrified at the time I would have really appreciated the honour I had to watch a true Royal legend in action and witness the effect he had on people of all ages. I would also have appreciated the timely manner that people rushed home to take my call and be part of the story.

Sadly, I didn't keep a copy of the paper.

When I look at the photo it reminds me of how much journalism, security and Royal protocol has changed over the decades. You can also see the faces in the crowd because no-one is obscured by holding a mobile phone and while I may not have had an umbrella I did have my handbag (which wasn't searched) over my shoulder for some reason.

SHOW PASS WINNER

We were bowled over by the number of people who sent entries to our "win a family pass to the Hawkesbury Show" contest.

We asked people to tell us in less than 25 words why they would like to go to the show and we had some great responses.

Some people forgot the word limit while most were spot on.

Grandparents, mums, dads, neighbours and even a couple of 10-year-olds wrote in. There were poems, pleas, a new dictionary definition and a determination to support local businesses exhibiting at the show. There was even one grandpa, determined his 3-year-old grandson should know that milk doesn't come from bottles.

Reliving childhood memories was also a big incentive as was treating someone who was going through a tough time.

Our panel of three had trouble choosing a winner from 48 entries sent by readers from North Richmond to Baulkham Hills and Vineyard to Northmead.

In the end, it was Larry Gillespie from Pitt Town who clinched it. He wants to treat his three grandchildren, impacted by the floods, to a great day out.

The 134th Hawkesbury show is going to be amazing. It runs this Friday (April 23), Saturday and Sunday (April 25) at Hawkesbury Showground, 40 Racecourse Road Clarendon.

FLORENCE TURNS 100

Florence Willcox at Castle Hill Bowling Club in 1994

Florence Willcox has packed so much into the past ten decades, from helping to run Severn Vale Farm in Kellyville, her home for 67 years, to girl guide commissioner, bowling club president and mother.

Florence Cassie Garner was born at Ashfield on May 1, 1921. A third child for Henry and Florence Garner and baby sister to brothers Edward and Harry. She grew up in Burwood and, after leaving school she attended Miss Hales Secretarial School where she studied typing and shorthand to become a stenographer.

During World War II, she enlisted in the Australian Women's Army Service and served in various Australian States as a stenographer. She was eventually discharged in Adelaide. Her whole family served during the war. Her brother Harry was killed at the fall of Singapore and her brother Edward served in Darwin.

Florence married Hector Thomas Willcox, a dairy farmer at Burwood in 1949 and became a step mother to Graydon Hodder Willcox. The family purchased their own 50-acre property which they named Severn Vale Farm in Balmoral Road, Kellyville in 1949, and ran a dairy farm, selling milk to United Dairies at North Rocks. The dairy business was sold in 1978. The couple had three children of their own, Jean, Dennis and Glenn and also looked after two Barnardos' boys who helped with the farm.

Dennis said his mum helped run the farm and did all the cooking, cleaning and washing. His sister Jean was born with a hole in her heart so his mum was often taking her to the Children's Hospital at Alexandria for appointments and treatment.

Sadly, Jean died from heart problems in 1984. Dennis said his mum was also involved in serving the local community.

"(She was) Commissioner of Girl Guides, a keen member of Toastmistress and also Cumberland Bird Observers, President, on two occasions of Castle Hill Women's Bowling Club, and also President of Mitchell District bowling club."

Florence was still enjoying lawn bowls at the age of 93 (she is Patron of Castle Hill Bowling Club) and was also driving a car up until the age of 93.

Florence lived on the Severn Farm property (named after the river in the UK) until 2016 when Balmoral Road was renamed Hector Court and she moved to Bella Vista Gardens in Fairway Drive, a mere 300 metres from the old farm's boundary. Local streets have been named after Hector, Florence, Willcox and Severn Vale, Graydon and Hodder.

She told her son Dennis she used to love living in Kellyville because of: "the country village feeling and community where everybody looked after each other".

The family's birthday gathering in Kellyville on Saturday (May 1) will feature four generations of her surviving children and their families. Florence has 10 grandchildren, 22 great-grandchildren and 4 great-great-grandsons.

Florence said she is looking forward to receiving her birthday telegram from the Queen, Elizabeth II.

Her secret to a long life is: "keeping the mind and body active".

Florence Willcox is 100 on May 1

The Toyota then hit a townhouse with such force it dislodged roof tiles and came to rest on the passenger side.

Officers from The Hills Police Area Command allege the driver, a 26-year-old man from Baulkham Hills, attempted to run from the scene. He was taken to Westmead Hospital.

CELEBRATE REMEMBER FIGHTBACK

By BEV JORDAN

Hills Relay For Life celebrates its 20th Birthday at Castle Hill on Saturday May 15, making it one of the longest running Cancer Council Relay events in Australia.

While it may be slightly different from previous events, thanks to COVID restrictions, Hope is still at the heart of this annual celebration of life which raises vital funds for cancer research and support.

2021 Chair of the Hills Relay For Life Lisa Carruthers said that despite COVID restrictions shortening the Hills Relay to a five-hour event, between 3pm and 8pm at Castle Hill Showground it will retain the highlights of the previous events including a candlelight ceremony of Hope.

Lisa experienced her first Hills Relay For Life six years ago as a sponsor.

"It was possibly the first event I could take my family too that was raising money for all types of cancer. My mother had cancer herself so it was very special to do something to honour my mother with the whole family."

She has since lost an aunt and a cousin to cancer. "Anything we can do to help fundraise is very important for my family."

She said the community event will include an opening ceremony, a 20th birthday celebrations, walking on the track, on stage entertainment, the major raffle draw, a candlelight ceremony. The headshave will feature 23-year-old Karenza de Leon who will be having all 86 cms of her hair shaved off to raise funds for cancer research.

The evening will end at 8pm with a 20th birthday firework display donated by DazzleFX Fireworks and Karen D'Angola Di Jones Real Estate.

This year's event is a ticket only affair so participants need to be registered with a Hills Relay For Life Team to be able to book a ticket at the event.

To join a team or form a team visit the Hills Relay For Life website cancerCouncil.org.au and search for Hills Relay For Life.

There is also a team called Join the Club for those without a team of their own.

Teams are also being encouraged to Relay My Way throughout the month of May by tackling a series of daily challenges with friends and family.

For more details email Yvette.Haines@nswcc.org.au or call 9354 2011.

Hills Relay For Life volunteers will be at Castle Towers shopping centre from Tuesday May 4 to Saturday May 8 between opening times wrapping gifts for Mother's Day for a gold coin donation. Paper and ribbon have been supplied by Castle Towers so all money raised will go to the Cancer Council. Level 3 near Peter Alexander, Haigh's Chocolates and Myer.

ANZAC DAY EVENTS

COVID restrictions will see a changed ANZAC day this Sunday (April 25) with the biggest Anzac Day Dawn Service outside the Sydney CBD not happening.

Thousands normally attend the Castle Hill RSL Sub-branch dawn service but it won't be held at the Centenary of Anzac Reserve at Wright's Road this year because of the size of the crowd it normally attracts.

While some suburbs will be holding invitation or ticketed events, others will be holding COVID-safe events for their community.

RICHMOND: Richmond RSL Sub-branch will commemorate ANZAC Day 2021 with a Dawn Service to be held at the Richmond War Memorial, Richmond Park, from 5am on Sunday, April 25.

The Dawn Service will adhere to pre-COVID traditions, including a Catafalque Party, keynote addresses and the laying of veteran and community wreaths.

Covered seating will be available for local dignitaries, veterans and older family members, who should arrive no later than 4.40am. Community members are also most welcome to participate in the ceremony, ensuring that they follow current social distancing and other COVID restrictions.

Richmond RSL Sub-branch also recommends that attendees carry personal hand sanitiser and a face mask. The wearing of face masks is not mandatory.

Richmond RSL Sub-branch welcomes the many veteran and community groups who, each year, participate in this commemoration and lay wreaths in honour of our veterans. Richmond RSL Sub-branch will continue to appreciate community families and individuals who also seek to lay private wreaths to honour family members who have served, or are serving.

CASTLE HILL/KELLYVILLE: There will be no ANZAC Day Dawn Service at the Centenary of Anzac Reserve off Wrights Road, Castle Hill this year.

Thousands normally attend the Dawn Service (the second largest gathering in NSW) on the playing fields opposite Kellyville Plaza shops but COVID restrictions, limiting attendance, have forced the Castle Hill RSL Sub-branch to change arrangements for this year's event.

President of Castle Hill RSL Sub-branch David Hand said they are encouraging people to hold a "Light up the Dawn" with their family and neighbours on Sunday instead.

Paul Garai from Castle Hill sub-branch said: "Light Up the Dawn is continuing as the new tradition for ANZAC Day, and in 2020 residents gathered in driveways and front yards across the district to reflect and remember those who served.

Residents are invited to send photos of their Light up the Dawn event for publication to: media@chrslsubbranch.org.au

KENTHURST: There will be a short march from the Caltex Service Station on Nelson St at 8.45am led by the Governor Macquarie Memorial Pipe Band to John Benyon Rotary Park on Kenthurst Rd where a service will start at 9am. The event is being organised by Kenthurst Rotary Club.

ANNANGROVE: A service will be held at 11am at Annangrove Park on Annangrove Rd on Sunday April 25 at 11am organised by the Annangrove Progress Association.

WINDSOR: There will be a controlled event held by Windsor and District RSL Sub-branch at 5.50am at MacQuade Park. The event is invitation only.

RIVERSTONE: The Riverstone-Schofields RSL sub-branch will be holding a private ANZAC Day service.

GALSTON: ANZAC dawn service will be held at 6am on Sunday April 25 at the Galston Cenotaph. Everyone will be seated and have to register on arrival.

GLENORIE: The ANZAC Dawn Service will be held at the Glenorie Cenotaph and Memorial Gardens at 6am. It will be a ticketed event as the maximum allowed is 250.

WISEMAN'S FERRY: The ANZAC Day march will be from Wiseman's Ferry Public School to the Memorial before a 10.30am service.

A Life of Service

By BEV JORDAN

There is a huge list of community organisations that Audrey Blood OAM has championed over the years and taking care of others has always been high on her list of priorities.

Mrs Blood moved into RSL LifeCare resident at Ron Middleton VC Gardens in North Richmond, earlier this year after her cancer treatment slowed her down.

"It is close to my family and friends," said the former Windsor resident. Mrs Blood lost her husband Neville in 1985. A World War 2 veteran, he had served with the 9th Division in Egypt and New Guinea.

She joined the War Widows Guild, starting a group in Macksville where she was living at the time.

Her involvement with the War Widows Guild of Australia spanned more than 20 years and included service as the NSW State President from 2003-2006 and as National President of the Guild, from 2008 to 2012.

"There were 100,000 war widows across Australia," she said. "I travelled to every State and did three trips to Gallipoli (to lay an official wreath at the dawn service on behalf of war widows) and one to the Western Front."

Her accomplishments were recognised nationally when she was awarded the Medal of the Order of Australia in 2002.

The mother-of-two lost her daughter Jannette, a nurse at Westmead Hospital, who was killed in a hit and run on her way home. The loss resulted in Mrs Blood's volunteer work with Compassionate Friends of Bereaved Parents.

Her 30-years as a volunteer has also included time with the State Emergency Service, Meals on Wheels, Voice Interest Education for Women Club (VIEW) for the Smith Family, Legacy, CWA, plus hospital and medical support groups.

In 2013, she was named Hawkesbury Citizen of the Year for her community work.

Mrs Blood said that her lymphoma diagnosis has resulted in numerous trips to the hospital for treatment plus major surgery in October last year.

She said she was very happy to move to Ron Middleton VC Gardens.

"It's an excellent place for someone like me," she said.

"I can't cope on my own, I get weak and tired so I need the help which is quite outstanding."

Uniquely for you.

Since 1911, not-for-profit RSL LifeCare has been developing connected and vibrant communities, for veterans and seniors with personalised care and services that suit your lifestyle.

OLIVIA'S ADVICE

By BEV JORDAN

OLIVIA ABEY is a thoughtful and caring 17-year-old who is balancing a growing home business with her HSC studies.

The teenager whose anxiety stopped her going to her own Year 10 formal is now providing a "safe haven" for teenagers, keen to get to their own formal but worried about their own body image and what to wear.

She has about 1000 new dresses of all shapes and sizes at her family's home and sees her role not so much as selling fashion but listening to the concerns of the people who visit and finding a style and dress they feel comfortable in.

"It's not really about the dress to me it's more about making sure girls feel confident in their formal dress and feel beautiful because I can totally relate... I didn't feel beautiful when I was looking for my formal dress and so many girls don't," said Olivia. "I was having such a horrible time leading up to my Year 10 Formal (trying to find a dress)."

Her last resort was a garage at a home in Riverstone where the owner had been selling formal dresses for about five years.

"I found a dress but then I ended up getting way too anxious to go to my formal so I didn't even end up going," said Olivia. She said when she and her mum heard the business was closing down last year, her mum suggested they buy it.

"The idea of doing something to help girls who felt the same way as me, was something I felt passionately about," said Olivia. She says there is a lot of pressure on teenagers.

"A lot of the time the fun of formal is taken out of it and it becomes this stressful thing ... you need to go and find a dress, and look perfect. I put music on and we have a laugh and I will pull out dress after dress until they find the one."

Her mission is to enable girls to look great and also feel great.

The fact that she's willing to spend time with customers during a one-to-one appointment has given her Formal Fashion House a large and loyal following.

The dresses are good quality and affordable. And it's not just teenagers ... young and more mature women looking for dresses for special occasions are also repeat customers, with dresses varying in price from $75 to $150.

"So many people who come here have low self-esteem," says Olivia. "The anxiety of finding a dress that you feel good in can be overwhelming, whether you are a size 4 or 24."

You can follow Formal Fashion House on Facebook and Instagram or call 0413 012 334 to make an appointment.

NEW VOICES FOR YOUTH

Julie Charlton, Rory O'Connor and Munira Tabassum Ahmed are this year's Sydney Hills Youth Ambassadors.

Munira is a talented writer and performer and is passionate about the arts, mental health and wellbeing.

Rory has lived in the Hills all his life. A Bushcare volunteer, Rory is currently completing a media and economics degree at Macquarie University.

Julie is a passionate advocate for people with disability. She has travelled throughout NSW to talk about the issues that they face. A sports coach, she has also been the chairperson at the Youth Advisory Council.

Hills Shire Mayor, Dr Michelle Byrne welcomed the new ambassadors to The Hills Shire Council team saying:

"Each brings something new to the table, as well as a strong focus on ensuring young people remain connected and engaged in their local community."

The Mayor also thanked the outgoing Youth Ambassadors Hayley Irving and Anthony Radic for their dedication to the role during 2020/21.

"Hayley and Anthony have done a terrific job, especially at a time when we were made to remain apart to protect the community from the further spread of COVID-19. The pandemic brought its challenges, but these two individuals worked really hard to ensure their fellow peers remained in high spirits."

Anthony Radic said one of the most significant projects he and Hayley were involved with during the year was collaborating with Headspace Castle Hill to create a weekly video series focussing on Mental Health concerns of local youth. Topics included 'Managing HSC stress' and 'What to do if your friend is struggling'.

Anthony and Hayley also worked on restarting the Hills Youth Army, a group for young people aged between 15 and 25, which this year worked on a Harmony Day project and participated in Clean Up Australia Day at Bella Vista Farm, collecting nine bags of rubbish (30kg) with the Mayor Dr Michelle Byrne.

Anthony said: "The Hills Youth Ambassadors have been in continuous collaboration with the local NSW police force to discuss long term ways to decrease youth crime. Hayley and I (also) worked with the Cattai Hills Environment Network to discuss ideas concerning their 'Bush kids' program and promote local environmental awareness for primary school children."

More Information about the Hills Youth Army visit the HYA Facebook page - www.facebook.com/HillsYouthArmy or contact The Hills Shire Council Community Development Officer - Volunteer and Grants on 02 9843 0322 or email volunteers@thehills.nsw.gov.au.

BREAKING THE MYTHS AROUND RETIREMENT LIVING

For some a retirement village offers the perfect blend of security, community and low-maintenance living. However, there's a few common myths about village life that we're here to clear up.

A retirement village is for old people.

Retirement villages offer the independence of living in your own low-maintenance apartment or villa, in a welcoming community. You maintain your own autonomy while reaping the benefits of village life.

I'll lose my independence.

A move to a village means eliminating the worry of maintaining a large house and garden. It also opens a range of social options and activities, which you can choose to be involved in as much or as little as you like.

Retirement villages aren't good value for money.

Retirement villages are an affordable way to downsize from the family home and free up equity. Before moving in, we'll calculate the exact amount you can expect to pay before, during and after your stay.

The best way to decide if a retirement village is right for you is to take a tour. Uniting has retirement villages throughout NSW and ACT. Get in touch by calling 1800 864 846 or uniting.org/villages.

WESLEY MARKET DAY

If you are looking for something to treasure, the Wesley Garage Sale on Saturday on May 1 may be the place to be.

All proceeds from the sale will be donated to Hawkesbury Helping Hands to help families impacted by the devastating floods. The COVID-safe event will be the first garage sale at Wesley Uniting Church at 32, Showground Road, Castle Hill for 18 months.

The annual event has been a feature event at the church for over 30 years. Co-ordinator John Peberdy said this year's event was a smaller event but will include fine china and collectables, books, records, cds, electrical, plants and furniture. There will also be a bric-a-brac, Men's Shed stall and a cake stall.

In 2018/19 financial year the Wesley garage sale committee donated $85,000 to various charities including Parramatta Mission, Riding For the Disabled and the Hills Women's Shelter as well as overseas aid projects.

Wesley Market Day will be held on Saturday May 1, 8.30am to 1.30pm in the church grounds on Showground Rd, entry via Worthing Ave.

Jason spoke with nurses, other parents of sick kids but most of all his wife Vanessa to find out what would brighten up a child's stay in hospital but also be useful.

The end result was the Supertee Superhero costume which fun but easy to access for medical procedures and has a cape that can double as a bib. The Supertees are packed in bright colourful tins with stickers, a comic and a bookmark and are given to young patients to keep.

Last week Jason and Hills District Dads with the support of Castle Hill RSL and four directors, 10 businesses and community radio station Alive 90.5 helped pack over 700 SuperTee boxes which were all sponsored.

The mammoth COVID-safe effort took just over 5 hours.

"We set a target of 300 Supertees and got more than 700 sponsored," said Jason. The Supertees will now be delivered to children's wards and hospitals all over Australia. Last year 36 Supertees were donated to Hawkesbury Hospital.

Nearly 5,000 children have received Supertees since they were launched in June 2018. Supertee packs are $45 each to sponsor.

Jason runs the Supertees project as a volunteer. For more information visit www.supertee.org.au.

There were super heroes of every kind at Castle Hill last week and the quietest of all was father-of-three Jason Sotiris who created the Supertee project for sick children.

Jason was inspired by his own children to come up with a specially designed Super Hero T-shirt to brighten up hospital stays for youngsters after their family's experience.

His daughter Angela was diagnosed with cancer a few weeks after her first birthday.

FACELIFT FOR HCA

Last week marked a fresh new look for Hills Community Aid. The official opening was performed by Chair of the Board Maria Kovacic and Baulkham Hills State MP David Elliott.

HCA Executive officer Mici Beer said the much-needed upgrade to their office in Conie Ave, Baulkham Hills provided more private rooms for clients, disability access, and a better environment for staff, clients and the more than 130 volunteers connected to HCA.

"We are very thankful for the funding we have received from the State Government's Community Builders Partnership."

David Elliott said: "HCA has been the backbone of a lot of the charity work going on in the Hills for more than half a century."

He said the grant was one way of acknowledging that not only is their work needed but they are an essential service.

Hills Community Aid runs several services including a No Interest Loan Scheme, support for DV victims, homeless and people at risk of homeless, the Hills Daily Grind coffee van, Learning in the Hills and supported playgroups. For more details visit www.hca.org.au or call 9639 8620.

NEW SCHOOL SITE NAMED

The State Government has announced the site for the new high school in Marsden Park which will be located on Elara Boulevard and Kaluta Avenue.

"We know this is one of the fastest growing areas in the state and I am proud that this government is continuing to invest in new and upgraded schools," Mr Conolly said.

Minister for Education Sarah Mitchell said the new high school will provide opportunities for the local community.

"Feedback will be important to ensure we deliver a unique new school with modern facilities that are designed specifically for the needs of this community.

The next steps for the project will include consultation with the local community as the project goes through design, development and preparation of planning documentation.

FRIENDSHIP CLUB CALL

By BEV JORDAN

CONNIE VALLIS is a community stalwart who is keen to start a Friendship group in the Hills to spark good conversation, play board games and organise social outings.

While COVID restrictions made 2020 a difficult year for many people, the Baulkham Hills resident is hoping 2021 will provide more chances for people who have felt isolated to connect with others.

As a long-time volunteer with Computer Pals for Seniors and Baulkham Hills cricket and football clubs, the mother of four, grandmother and great grandmother has had a busy life. She is in the midst of writing her third book but the sudden loss of her husband Keith last year has left Connie living alone for the first time in 90 years.

"After a long happy marriage of 68 years, I am living at home, all alone, for the first time in my life," she told the Hills to Hawkesbury Community News.

"I want to stay in my home because all my memories are here and I am comfortable. I have beautiful neighbours and lots of lovely kids around me but when you close that door at night it is just so lonely. Weekends and nights especially. It's about having company and someone to talk to."

She says her family are wonderful but can't be with her all the time. "I am trying not to be a burden and I have to try and make a life of my own. Keith and I did absolutely everything together, apart from my Computer Pals. I do still believe that life is what you make it, and if possible, one should try to help oneself," she said.

"There must be other people out there like me, maybe not as old as me, who would like to create a "Friendship Group" where like-minded people in similar situations, can get together socially, days, nights and/or weekends for perhaps lunches, happy hours, dinners, movie nights, card games or book clubs.

"I could also help people write their life story."

She has written two books on her life for her family (four children, 12 grandchildren and three great grandchildren) called, Delectable Decades and Grandma, You Didn't, and is now writing her third book with the working title, Chasing the Century.

If you are interested in being part of a Friendship Group call Cathy Pitts at Home Instead on 9980 2226 or email Connie at cmvh28@gmail.com.

MATERNITY TOURS A MUST

Tours of the maternity unit at Norwest Private Hospital began again this month after stopping at the start of the COVID outbreak over a year ago.

Midwife Megan Cuff who has been conducting the tours for several years said the tours give people a chance to meet the midwives and also to “feel the friendly culture” in the hospital and find out relevant information.

Last week 16 couples took the opportunity to visit the maternity unit and ask questions directly to the midwife.

“We ask that only the woman having the baby and her immediate partner or support person take the tour so that there are not too many people,” said Megan.

People ask a wide variety of questions such as: “What do I need to bring to the hospital?”

“How many people can be in the birthing room with me? What do I wear whilst in labour?”

“I feel that the tour is important to our clients because sometimes people are worried or even a bit anxious about hospitals,” she said.

“I have been taking the tours for approximately six years now and it’s a lovely part of my job to share in the excitement surrounding the birth of a baby.”

Tours of the Birth Suites and Maternity Suites are held every Thursday evening from 7pm to 8pm. No booking is required. Just meet at the hospital main reception at 6.45pm.

The first few months of the year have been busy with almost 600 babies delivered so far.

As well as the maternity tours restarting other changes have taken place regarding visitors.

Grandparents are now able to visit the maternity ward between 3pm and 6pm.

Two nominated support people are now also allowed in the birthing unit during labour and birth and one of the support people may be with the mother on the ward for support and stay overnight. There’s no limit to the amount of time they stay. The support person can be swapped as long as there’s only one at a time.

Siblings of newborns are welcome to meet their new brother or sister at any time. There are no other visitors allowed to the Maternity Unit.

Norwest Private Hospital is at 11 Norbrik Drive, Bella Vista. Phone: 02 8882 8882 or find out more at norwestprivatehospital.com.au

DINE OUT AND HELP OUT

The Dine and Discover Vouchers have a two-fold value at The Hills Club at Baulkham Hills which is donating every cent it gets from the State Government back to help communities devastated by the recent floods.

The Hills Club General Manager Angus Rimmer said the club had collected over $5000 so far which could be doubled by the end of April.

His proposition to donate the money from April to GIVIT.org.au was backed unanimously by the Club's Board.

The GIVIT organisation is working in partnership with the State Government, Local Councils, charities and community groups during the flood recovery to identify exactly what is needed and ensure that is delivered. It has promised that 100 per cent of the money donated will be used to purchase essential items and services for communities impacted by the floods.

Mr Rimmer said: "We are very careful where we donate money. This is about making sure that 100 per cent of the money donated goes to the people who need it."

"The Club had a lot of help last year from the Government with Job Keeper payments to retain our staff. The Dine and Discover vouchers are a great way of attracting people to our club but we thought we would pass that money we get from the Government to GIVIT to help others."

"It was devastating seeing the impact that the floods were having in our own backyard in the Hills area and across the country," he said. "It didn't feel right to be taking this generous stimulus package from the government when the funds could have been of better assistance to these flood victims."

HELP FOR DISTRESSED MUMS

Becoming a parent is a time of enormous adjustment - for many it is a time of joy but for some, it brings feelings of anxiety and depression.

The St John of God Mother-Baby Unit (MBU) in Burwood works closely with mothers struggling with postnatal anxiety and depression, to begin their journey to recovery and gain confidence caring for their baby. Partners who may also be struggling emotionally, or need guidance in how best to support the new mother and baby (up to 12 months), are very much part of the holistic approach to care.

The Mother and Baby Unit offers the only specialist inpatient program in New South Wales for mothers and their babies up to 12 months of age.

The program includes a combination of group therapies or programs, and skills and support with feeding, sleep and settling issues that may arise in terms of baby care.

The MBU provides specialist care from a team of doctors, psychologists, midwives and parent craft nurses. Most mothers and their babies stay for a three-week admission and during this time, a care plan is developed with the mother including group therapy, medication if needed, and assists with sleep and feeding issues and mother-infant bonding.

Planning for psychological care post discharge is important, and mothers can continue being seen at the clinic and also attend the Postnatal Depression Support or Circle of Security group programs facilitated from the adjacent counselling and therapy centre.

A GP referral letter is required for admission to the MBU. Most health insurance funds cover the cost of these programs depending on the level of individual cover. Recent changes in government legislation allow an upgrade in cover for mental health treatment to occur within a 24-hour timeframe. Please speak with your insurer to initiate this change.

Visit www.sjog.org.au/burwood to learn more about the Mother and Baby Unit.

The recent floods brought massive destruction across the Hawkesbury region and is the latest of numerous disasters our community has had to face. Thankfully, we displayed the resilience that forms the fabric of our community and we got through it – or have we?

As I travel around Hawkesbury to flood affected areas, it is clear that the clean-up and restoration won't be done overnight. The impact on farmers, businesses and families has been devastating and there is much to learn in ways to mitigate and manage the consequences of living in a floodplain. To an outsider, just because the rain has stopped and the waters have subsided, they might think that all is well. It is far from true. Turf farmers have no income for up to 18 months and have massive rehabilitation issues.

Market gardeners have lost their crops and river banks need stabilising. Animals can't graze on the land so food has to be purchased. Caravan parks have had almost everything destroyed. Cafes, golf courses, sports clubs and residential homes are faced with repairs that often won't be covered by insurance.

Both Hawkesbury and The Hills councils are counting the cost as roads, bridges and infrastructure pay the price of being in this flood prone area.

The NSW Government is working closely with councils to restore the infrastructure and to further progress the clean-up through its Public Works Advisory until the clean-up is complete.

Difficult and hazardous waste is being removed so that people can get back into their homes and local businesses can recover.

Thank you to the emergency services sector, councils and the countless volunteers who came together to contribute to this huge effort.

The recovery centres are still operating and more information can be found at www.service.nsw.gov.au/floods/recovery-centres-and-hubs or by calling 13 77 88. I encourage you to visit the centre so that you can be supported and advised on financial grants and other assistance.

TELSTRA IS STILL FAILING

Last year I started a campaign to get better telecommunications for our electorate. Many of you told me your Telstra story and explained the frustrations you have had in receiving adequate service from Telstra.

I took your story, and hundreds of others like it, to Telstra and I worked with them to try and resolve every excuse they presented for why they couldn't improve their service.

The Bushfire Royal Commission indicated that there are serious telecommunications failures in areas at risk of fire and flood. In fact, just last month, I again had to contact Telstra myself, to get them to resolve long term telecommunications issues that I raised more than 18 months ago at the Hills fire control centre, which was being used as a base for coordinating the flood response for the entire Hawkesbury region.

I have even worked to adjust the mobile blackspot programme to focus on bushfire prone areas like the Berowra electorate in the hope it would encourage Telstra to invest, but Telstra simply does not care about its customers in our community.

Telstra told me that they would build two towers in our electorate and promised they would work with me to get more towers under the Government's mobile blackspot program. But after a year of trying to work constructively with Telstra, they have failed to apply for a single tower for our community under the program.

So, I am asking you again help me to put pressure on Telstra to act. Colleagues in other electorates facing similar challenges are also asking their community to sign a petitions to get Telstra to take action. We will also be looking at ways to use regulation to force Telstra to change their behaviour but I need our community's help in order for Telstra to realise the seriousness of the problems we have.

Please make sure Telstra pays attention, by taking the following actions: Sign the petition (www.julianleeser.com.au/telco). Share the campaign on social media (just share the top post on my Facebook page) www.facebook.com/JulianLeeserMP

WOLVES ON THE BOUNCE

Windsor Wolves are feeling let down in their round six game against hosts St Marys, with coach Chris Yates saying "decisions and the bounce of the ball went against us".

The Saints racked up a 34-8 victory over the Wolves after forging a 16-0 lead by the interval. Two second half tries by the Wolves cut the lead before the Saints made the most of a sin bin offence by the visitors to stretch the advantage again.

"I cannot fault the efforts of our players and I know that if they can continue in this vein, we will do better," Yates said.

"This season, the Saints have been putting between 50-60 points on their opponents but we held them to the 20s before they scored two late tries when we were one man down."

The Wolves take on Western Suburbs Magpies for a rare home game on Saturday, April 24, at 5pm.

The Windsor Sports Complex had been flooded for several days due to the heavy storms with the players only able to train there from the previous week.

UNBEATEN BULLS LIFT GREMMO SHIELD

By LAWRENCE MACHADO

The Hills Bulls are enjoying their best start to the Ron Massey Cup rugby league season with a perfect record after five matches. The Bulls scored a tough 28-16 win over Blacktown Sea Eagles to secure the Nathan Gremmo Memorial Shield in front of a huge home crowd last weekend.

The Bulls led 14-10 at half time at Crestwood Oval. Josh Benjamin and Josh Lewis converted two tries each with the latter also putting over a penalty and two field goals.

Bulls' skipper Tim Robinson received the Gremmo Shield from Hills Mayor Dr Michelle Byrne. Club president Michael Gremmo spoke and presented jerseys to the players before the match, which is one of the highlights of the season for the club.

"It was a very physical and tough game because Blacktown included two players from a higher grade to strengthen their side," Withers said. "It was an emotional win for us because many of the boys had known Nathan and Michael's speech provided an extra incentive for them. This is the club's best start; I am very happy we won and had no injuries."

On Sunday, which is Anzac Day, the Bulls take on defending premiers Wentworthville Magpies at Ringrose Park at 3pm.

WOMEN'S PREMIER HIT

By LAWRENCE MACHADO

"For the first time, our Women's Premier League was live-streamed on our HFI Premier Leagues Facebook page to a terrific audience. We have maintained our growth in female football with nearly 2,500 registered female footballers this season."

Rippon, who worked previously at Football Federation Australia and Football NSW, said there is a lot of potential for the female players in the Hills.

"There are a lot of players playing at the highest level within the association and lots of players who have been coming through our juniors," he said.

Hills Football has pathways to the highest levels of the sport but importantly, there are also ideal grassroots participation for both boys and girls through the MiniRoos and Minitildas.

Rippon is also looking forward to launching the Walking Football league for men and women of all ages in June.

Female football is reaching new heights in The Hills with the inaugural Women's Premier League (WPL) outstripping expectations.

The launch of the first WPL by Hills Football on April 9 coincides with Sydney being selected to stage the final of the 2023 Women's World Cup at Stadium Australia, Homebush.

Hills Football General Manager Matthew Rippon is delighted at the bigger than expected numbers which sees nine teams contesting the WPL in its debut season.

"There is a great growth in female football in the Hills, which is fantastic to see," Rippon said. "This will provide even more playing opportunities through every age."

"Football is growing rapidly in the Hills. We have over 12,600 players in over 830 competitive teams playing on the first weekend in what is now our largest season on record.

WE REMEMBER THOSE WHO ALSO SUFFERED

Whilst we remember all those who made the ultimate sacrifice, we must not forget the many other victims of conflict. Many of those who served and returned to our shores also suffered during their time of service, Shell Shock it may have been called after WW1. Post Traumatic Stress was what it may have been after Vietnam. But what ever you may call it, it caused much suffering to not only those who served but also to their family members and for many it was for the rest of their lives

We must also not forget other victims who did not serve in the armed forces, the parents, siblings, wives and children of those who did not return and how their lives were affected forever. Businesses were commandeered and changed to make weapons etc. and large family homes were commandeered as hospital rehabilitation.

The non-combatants during conflict are not to be overlooked either. The nurses, doctors, ambulance drivers, merchant seamen, refugees and interned civilians who may have been in theatres of war were also killed, injured or imprisoned during the conflicts of war.

Like much of the world, our area felt the effects of war during various conflicts. At Baulkham Hills, the Masonic School was converted to a military hospital. The Showground at Castle Hill became a military camp. There were military bases, camps, and airfields at Windsor, Richmond, Schofields and elsewhere each becoming a beehive of activity.

Some of our local citizens, in the past, have spoken of what they remembered of the dark days of wartime. The late Connie Lowe once spoke of the ladies of Lower Portland who, in a response to a request broadcast by the then Princess Elizabeth (now Queen Elizabeth II) for baby clothes for the bombed out baby victims of London, set to work with their knitting needles.

John Doering of Annangrove remembered when war started there was a lot of recruiting. As the war progressed, the general public weren't allowed in the bush at certain times. We couldn't go down to play and fish. The army took it over and used it for army manoeuvres, mock battles etc. Every day you'd see the Air Force in the air with mock battles and dog fights for all the different aircraft training before they went to war.

Other residents of the area reported that they lost their postman who was called up as well as other local personnel. Some of the Italian and German families in the area were interned or had their rifles seized for the duration of the war. There were also reports of hearing the explosions taking place when the midget submarines attacked Sydney Harbour instilling fear in the community thinking that the enemy was just offshore of Sydney and expecting an invasion at any time.

Radio broadcast during the war consisting of news of engagements by various battalions and divisions of the military gave concern to many as they knew of members of such battalion engaged somewhere in Europe or New Guinea and caused concern for the fate of their family member or friend fighting the enemy somewhere offshore.

Blackout curtains were placed over windows and car headlights were covered so as to prevent light revealing to enemy bombers the locations of buildings and transport at night. Trenches and bomb shelters were built in backyards and school grounds as hopefully safe havens during bombing raids for families and school students. Rationing was introduced to safeguard fuel and food supplies in case of prolonged shortages.

Many civilians joined in non-combatant roles by joining the workforce in armament factories, the land army, the Red Cross and other areas providing support for the troops and others caught up in the fighting of war. War has and continues to cause suffering to many. So when we say "Lest We Forget" we also must not forget all those others who have or continue to suffer from wartime activities of which there are many hundreds and thousands. Homes and families were decimated - Parents, Grandparents, Uncles and Aunts. So let us remember them all when we stand and say "Lest we forget" They also suffered so that we may continue to live in a free democratic country without tyranny.

A TREASURE TROVE OF DELIGHT

by GISELA HORNER
FRIENDS OF BELLA VISTA
FARM VOLUNTEER

Marie Whetton is passionate about Bella Vista Farm. "I just get the feeling of calmness ... I feel the physical presence of those who once lived there".

Marie's great grandfather arrived from Ireland at the age of nine in 1851 and the family purchased a farm near Bathurst. He married Mary Cranston, and they had 11 children, one being Marie's grandfather George Kennedy. Her grandparents kept the farm and she remembers visiting as a child.

Bathurst is close to Marie's heart and the family returns for ANZAC Days and family reunions.

Her father, Kevin was a motor mechanic in Bathurst but moved the family to Sydney after Marie's two older brothers and sister left home.

It was Marie's mother who saw an advertisement for an undertaker in Lakemba which came with living quarters. Later they moved to Blacktown to the Guardian Funeral Home.

Marie's father was a compassionate and much-respected man in the funeral industry and when the firm relocated – the Kevin Maloney Reflection Room was named in his honour.

Marie and her future husband Geoff were school friends. After their Intermediate exams Geoff got a printer's apprenticeship and Marie left, intending to return the following year.

Her parents agreed that if she got a job in the school holidays, she could continue working. She got a job in a pharmacy at 16 and continued working there for many years.

Marie and Geoff had started courting in 1966 and in 1971, married. 1972 was a big year. They built their house in Baulkham Hills and had their first child – Rebecca. Two years later they had twins, Daniel and James.

Marie says she was very large during her second pregnancy. Many specialists confirmed her baby had a pre-birth weight of 16lbs! At the eleventh hour, it was revealed she was having twins.

The couple had chosen the name Daniel James for a boy so with twins: one was named Daniel and the other James. Marie was too exhausted to think further! By coincidence –her grandfather Don, was actually christened Daniel James.

In the mid 80s, Marie joined her friend Maureen and husband Barry in their family business, working in customer service, later in accounts and office supervisor.

Marie and Maureen are still close friends and love volunteering. They joined Bella Vista Farm three years ago and, along with Marge, have created a successful Trash and Treasure stall, with all profits going to Bella Vista Farm. With their love and knowledge of beautiful china, glassware and old treasures the items are of high quality. Royal Doulton and Villeroy & Boch can be found along with DVDs, toys and books. Bella Vista Farm is lucky to have their expertise and enthusiasm.

JETTERS TO THE RESCUE

With the recent floods in the Hawkesbury Valley and beyond, it's not only councils and water authorities that are having to deal potential health issues from overflowing septic tanks. Plumbers are also being faced with unprecedented increased blocked sewer and stormwater drains.

Reece, Australia's leading plumbing supply store, Windsor branch are seeing a demand for high pressure water jetting equipment to clear drains fast and efficiently. Australian Pumps are the leaders in supplying drain cleaning jettets.

"Plumbers are coming in requesting Aussie Jettets to get the job done faster. The word has spread that these machines are also far safer", said Assistant Manager Jimmy Veness. "Our plumbers are very happy with the Aussie Jettets and really looking forward to using them."

"Just the range of the jetter alone, 60 metres from the machine, is a huge advantage over any mechanical 'Eel'. The Aussie Viper Mini Reel is a huge benefit in terms of convenience and safety", he said.

Aussie's range of jettets start from 4,000 psi 20 litres per minute flow, with larger machines clearing drains up to 9"!

All Aussie jettets now come with a safety plate that protects the operator when withdrawing the hose from the drain, with bigger machines including free hose restraints and E-stop. Further information is available from Australian Pump Industries aussiepumps.com.au

Another happy plumber with his Aussie Jetter as many Reece stores stocking up with these drain cleaning greats.

Next Open Day at Bella Vista Farm is Sunday May 2, and celebrates Heritage Day. Gates are open from 9am to 3pm. Entry to the grounds is free. COVID rules are observed. The 'Friends' will greet you dressed in period costume. Enjoy a Devonshire Tea and listen to classical music performed by the Hills Shire Symphony Orchestra. Tour the house for a gold coin donation and browse the Trash and Treasure Stall.

The Farm is on the corner of Elizabeth Macarthur Drive and Norwest Boulevard Bella Vista. If you are interested in becoming a member, email friends.bellavistafarm@gmail.com

HILLS COMMUNITY GARDEN

After nearly two years of planning, The Rotary Club of The Hills-Kellyville has proudly established a Community Garden at Conie Avenue Reserve, Baulkham Hills which will be officially opened on Saturday, May 1.

Keen gardeners who have snapped up the plots and have already been planting on two special weekend events earlier this month.

The community garden has been established with the support of The Hills Shire Council, a Federal grant and with help from members of the community and local businesses.

Community gardens have shown to contribute to a better and healthier lifestyle by:

- providing fresh, safe, affordable herbs, fruits and vegetables
- helping to relieve stress and increase sense of wellness
- getting people active to help improve overall physical health
- providing social opportunities that build a sense of community and belonging
- giving people an opportunity to learn and share knowledge on gardening, nature, and cooking
- providing an inclusive meeting area where all interested people of all ages and cultural backgrounds can come together to share experiences

The idea for a community garden grew from Orange Blossom Garden Competition which The Rotary Club of The Hills-Kellyville has been involved with running for several years.

President of the Rotary Club of The Hills-Kellyville John van den Burg said: "Our involvement in the Garden Competition revealed an opportunity for a Community Garden given the increase in higher density living in the area.

"We believe that this initiative could benefit many in the Community for decades to come."

With the help of generous donors including Bunnings Castle Hill, Turtle Landscape Supplies and Cooks Plumbing, members of the Rotary Club of The Hills-Kellyville along with interested community members prepared the site and built the garden beds.

Three of the 14 garden beds are still available. To find out more or register an interest call Keith Stapley, Community Garden Chairman on 0412 079 014. The Community Garden is also a project recognising 100 years of Rotary International.
