Hills Community Aid Spring Family Fun Day

Exciting events across the area

It's a busy time for community events in the area, with a number of new openings and school holiday events keeping the calendars of residents in the Hills and Hawkesbury busy and entertained.

Samantha Riley Drive Reserve recently opened on the 23rd of September to become the first dedicated sports complex in North Kellyville. Residents enjoyed exploring the state-of-the-art facilities while free activities were run by local sporting teams such as a barbecue from the Rouse Hill Rhinos Rugby League club, and cricket drills run by the Kellyville Supersonics Sports Club.

The Reserve was officially opened by Hills Shire Mayor Peter Gangemi, who was glad to see the project completed. He said: "Council is proud to have delivered this facility on time and budget, overcoming challenges including wet weather and vandalism that caused significant damage to the fields. It will become a significant centre for community sports in North Kellyville, and I am confident it will be where our future sporting stars are born."

On Wednesday 27th September, Hills Community Aid put on their Spring Family Fun Day where hundreds gathered to enjoy the festivities and various stalls at Balcombe Heights Estate. A huge range of activities were available to all the kids in attendance, who were able to enjoy a jumping castle, arts and crafts, a treasure hunt, sporting games and appearances from both the Police and Fire and Rescue that proved very exciting.

Alive 90.5FM provided great tunes and informative news the whole time, helping to create community spirit at the event, all while Castle Hill Rotary Club kept attendees fed with a delicious sausage sizzle that raised $700 for Hills Community Aid. Laughter and smiles were present throughout the whole event, making the Spring Family Fun Day one to remember.

Plenty of events are still to come before the year ends. Head to The Hills Food & Wine Festival at Bella Vista Farm on Sunday 8th October from 11am-6pm, and indulge yourself at Hawkesbury City Council's Savour the Flavour event on Saturday 14th October at Richmond Oval and Richmond Park from 4pm-9pm.

Box Hill Town Centre

BY BEV JORDAN

There has been a huge amount of interest from developers in snapping up the Box Hill City Centre site at 29-31 Terry Road Box Hill which has been put on the market by receivers after the collapse of Toplace.

The 4.3ha site is being sold by Frank Knight and CBRE on behalf of Toplace receivers FTI consulting. The closing date for expression of interest this Tuesday, October 11th at 4pm.

No price has been mentioned in the advertising but the estimated value quoted in many areas is $600million. The Masterplanned site has development approval for a 22,843sq shopping centre and 660 apartments across nine residential blocks, 6 to 9 storeys high.

Knight Frank's Mark Litwin said: "It is an asset that has drawn a lot of interest given its position within the precinct and the terms under which it is being sold.

"The site is currently improved with an active DA for a much needed shopping centre and 660 apartments."

Existing works include site excavation, two levels of substructure (parking and loading) and the slab for the major retail anchor tenant.

When Toplace started marketing Box Hill Town Centre it listed the key features as: Coles, Liquor Land Supermarket, Chemist Warehouse a major medical/imaging precinct, approximately 479 Retail Car spaces and a major transport hub. In its marketing Frank Knight says the area is expected to be home to 30,200 residents by 2036

Hills Shire Council General Manager Michael Edgar told the Hills to Hawkesbury Community News he hoped work will restart on the important retail centre soon.

"Box Hill is growing every day, and our new residents are looking for places to shop or to grab a cup of coffee within a convenient distance from their homes or workplaces," he said.

"The centre, if completed, will be a valuable addition to the community, providing benefits for day-to-day shopping, but also upgrades to roads and intersections in the vicinity. It's an expected piece of social infrastructure for the surrounding community.

"It's my hope that the administrator can find solutions and get this project back off the ground. In the meantime, I recommend the government looks to improve its consumer protection laws to safeguard individuals who are owed money or left with unfinished homes. This will help restore trust in the construction industry and provide meaningful protection to prevent similar situations from occurring in the future."

Toplace collapsed owing over $1 billion. Over 20,000 homeowners were affected by the collapse of the developer which had several highrise developments in the Hills including Atmosphere and Skyview at Castle Hill and Grand at Kellyville plus Watkins St Townhomes at Baulkham Hills.

* In December 2022 Frank Knight sold a 30.9 hectare parcel of land at 10-31 Terry Road Box Hill to WST Property Group for homes. The land is adjacent to the Box Hill City Centre site and was sold by the McCall Gardens Community Foundation to future proof the services it provides to the disabled community. The Foundation retained nearly 5 hectares of the parcel for existing community facilities and operations.

MAN, 62, ARRESTED

Detectives have charged a man with alleged historic child sexual and indecent assault offences which occurred in Sydney's northwest and at various NSW locations from the 1980s to the mid-2000s.

Detectives attached to Riverstone Police Area Command established Strike Force Mimo in August 2021, following reports a man sexually assaulted a teenage girl known to him between 2005 and 2006.

As part of ongoing investigations, police received additional reports of alleged acts of indecency committed against four young boys when the man was a leader of a scout group between 1980 and the mid-1990s.

Following extensive inquiries, investigators attended a home in Dean Park about 9.40am on Tuesday 3rd October where they arrested a 62-year-old man.

He was taken to Riverstone Police Station and charged with sexual intercourse without consent, three counts of indecent assault on male, and one count of incite person under 16 years to commit act of indecency.

As inquiries continue, police are appealing for anyone who may be able to assist detectives with their inquiries.

Anyone with information about this incident is urged to contact Crime Stoppers. Information is treated in strict confidence.

HOUSE FIRE

A lightning strike is believed to have caused a fire which destroyed a ten-bedroom home in Glenorie on Wednesday, September 27th. Emergency services were called to the fire at Cattai Ridge Road Glenorie at around 7.30pm. The family of seven got themselves out and no-one was in the house when crews arrived. The fire was well alight. More than 70 fire crews attended.

A go fund me page has been set up to support the Zeaiter family who lost everything in the blaze.

SEXTORTION

Police say sexual extortion, also known as sextortion, is a growing concern for law enforcement agencies

Boys between the ages of 13 and 17 are primarily targeted, and it involves coercing them into sending sexually explicit content and then blackmail.

The Australian Federal Police have created an online response kit to help manage serious incidents of sextortion.

They say do not hesitate to seek assistance and take action against this threat. Reporting is safe and the reporter won't be blamed.

BREAK-IN CHARGES

A 36-year-old man has been arrested and charged with a series of break-ins in the Hills last month.

The Hills Proactive Crime Team, assisted by specialist officers from the North-West Metro. Region Operational Support Group (OSG), executed a search warrant at a Blakett address.

Police were seeking items connected to thefts and residential break-ins committed in Castle Hill, Dural, and Kellyville during September 2023.

A 36-year-old man was arrested and taken to Mt Druitt Police Station where he was charged with two counts of break, enter and steal, four stealings, entering land with intent to commit an indictable offence, and disposing of stolen property.

The search recovered several items of stolen property which can now be returned to their owners. Anyone with information about this or other incidents is urged to call Crime Stoppers NSW. Information is treated in strict confidence. The public is reminded not to report information via NSW Police social media pages.

LUCKY ESCAPE

Two men had a lucky escape when the vehicle they were in left the road and Box Hill and crashed onto its roof.

Emergency services were called to the incident site on Nelson Rd, Box Hill just after midnight on Monday 25th September.

When Castle Hill Police officers and members of the Rural Fire Service arrived both occupants had managed to get themselves out of the crashed vehicle, one sustained only a minor injury to his arm. The driver returned a negative road-side breath test and was issued an infringement notice for Negligent Driving ($481).

SCAM ALERT

There are numerous text scams doing the rounds inviting people to click on links including messages saying that parcels have not been delivered because of an incorrect address.

Police are warning of a recent scam text which advises people that their Medicare card has expired. The message asks people to click a link to update your details.

The warning is not to click any links sent to your phone. Services Australia will send a new new Medicare card about 4 to 8 weeks before it expires and will not send a phone message.

If you've clicked a link or given your personal information to a scammer, call Services Australia Scams and Identity Theft Helpdesk on 1800 941 126 straight away. Read more about this and other active scams: <https://servicesaustralia.gov.au/active-scams>

Riverstone Highway Patrol have arrested a 19-year-old Learner Driver for drink driving who will face court on October 10th.

The man was stopped by Riverstone Highway Patrol driving a red Hyundai I30 after he failed to give way to a Police vehicle on the roundabout on Hambledon Road, Quakers Hill at about 1.50am on Monday 16th September.

The 19 year old produced a NSW Learner's licence and did not have a supervising driver in the vehicle at the time. He submitted to a breath test, returning a positive result and was arrested and conveyed to Riverstone Police Station where he submitted to a breath analysis which returned a positive reading of 0.118.

He was charged with driving with Mid Range PCA and Learner not accompanied by authorised driver, and his licence was suspended until he is to appear before Blacktown Local Court on 10th October.

BUSHFIRE READY

Deputy Mayor and RFS volunteer Cllr Mitchell Blue spoke to Glenorie Progress Association at Glenorie RSL recently about being prepared for bush fires. He was joined by The Hills NSW Rural Fire Service staff along with members of Glenorie Rural Fire Brigade, Maroota Rural Fire Brigade and Hillside Rural Fire Brigade.

"Before the presentation, it was interesting to see how many residents chose to 'stay and defend' in the event of a bushfire and then the number that decided afterward that it was best for them to 'leave early. This is a key consideration when developing a Bushfire Survival Plan," he said.

"Bush fire is a part of life in New South Wales. So, you need to live bush fire ready. That means knowing your risk and having a plan for what to do during a fire. The best way to do this is to make a Bushfire Survival Plan. www.myfireplan.com.au

"A bush or grass fire can happen at any time of the year, but the risk is higher during the warmer months, when bush, grass or scrub is drier. You don't have to live right near the bush to be at risk. Even if your home is a few streets back, you may be at risk. A well-prepared home is more likely to survive a bush fire. Even if your plan is to leave early, the more you prepare your home, the more likely it will survive a bush fire or ember attack. A well-prepared home can also be easier for you or firefighters to defend and is less likely to put your neighbours' homes at risk. A well-prepared home will also give you more protection if a fire threatens suddenly and you cannot leave. For more information on 'getting ready' visit www.rfs.nsw.gov.au/plan-and-prepare.

"As the Chair of The Hills Bushfire Management Committee and a local volunteer firefighter, I am so passionate about bushfire safety and preparedness.

"I'm ready, and I'd like you to be too."

Soph's Puppy Love

BY BEV JORDAN

It has taken four years and a lot of hard work but autistic 21-year-old Soph has raised almost enough money to buy herself an assistance dog.

The Beaumont Hills resident is determined to be placed with a specially trained service dog for people with special needs and is required to raise a minimum of $20,000 for this to happen. So far Soph has raised $17,000 of the $20,000 she needs by recycling bottles and cans and selling fidget toys which she makes.

Her recycling has raised more than half the money she has collected so far and the rest has come from various other means including donations and the sale of over 660 of her own fidget range via Instagram.

Soph communicates through AAC apps (augmentative/alternative communication programs) on her devices and she used AAC to contact the Hills to Hawkesbury Community News, to tell her story.

In her email she wrote: "I am a very determined and passionate 21-year-old. I am autistic and mostly non-speaking with many mental health impacts – leading to multiple hospitalisations in the past year."

Soph spent over 3 months last year in and out of hospitals for mental health reasons.

"Considering all the impacts my disability has on my life I thought an assistance dog may well be the most significant support," she said.

An assistance dog will be trained in tasks to help Soph mitigate her disabilities, the dog will help her develop independence and confidence and improve her quality of life.

"It will promote my safety as well as dogs are a constant 24/7 support being there with you all the time and provide constant comfort and companionship."

Soph says she started to fundraise herself after being knocked back three times for NDIS funding for an assistance dog and so applied to the Smart Pups program which approved her application.

She has a stuffed golden retriever toy she made herself and has named Nugget which she takes with her everywhere she goes to remind her of her puppy goal.

"Being honest, thinking about my future dog has been my biggest factor helping me have a will to live," she writes.

While family, friends and neighbours save bottles and cans for Soph she admits to "bin diving" to recover more and credits her parents,

Nugget with Soph's budge Beri

Soph recycling

"Being honest, thinking about my future dog has been my biggest factor helping me have a will to live."

Julia and Andrew, for their help in driving her around to help with her recycling quest.

"The fundraising (by) myself has been a huge effort and I feel is something I should not have to do for something that will significantly change and support me in my life. Once I acquire the funding, I have to wait 18 months to 2 years for a dog to be trained, placed and gain full public access."

If you would like to help Soph by making a donation or buying fidget toys please follow her on instagram @fidgetlife or email soph.fidgetlife@outlook.com

For some kids, childhood is far from what it should be.

Instead of playdates there are appointments. Instead of sleepovers there are stays. Instead of firsts there can be lasts.

No child should have to go through this, but those who do deserve our all. Sydney Children's Hospitals Foundation (SCHF) has one foot at the frontline and one in the future of kids' health. Backed by a community of unstoppable changemakers, like Jenny, we are here to help all sick kids, no matter where, no matter what.

After an unexpected trip to the emergency department with her newborn daughter, Jenny decided to show her appreciation, despite her busy schedule, by volunteering with SCHF.

"The experience of seeing your child go through any kind of health journey is incredibly hard. Being a new mum, you've just had your baby, it's three weeks in and she's back in emergency and you have that uncertainty where you're just not sure what's going to happen next. That fear of potentially losing your child, it's something you don't want anyone to have to go through. But, the staff are who really got me through it all – they were so dedicated, so caring and reassuring. They really helped me get through it just by showing up every day", explains Jenny.

"What the experience taught me was that life is so precious and it does take a group of really amazing people to get you through that. So, ever since then I wanted to get involved in any way that I can to give back and to really be a part of helping to improve children's health and the journey that they go through.

I show my support for SCHF through volunteering, which I absolutely love. Knowing that I'm part of something bigger and it's contributing directly to children's health by supporting sick kids and their parents, who may be going through a lot of emotional and physical pain means a lot. Through volunteering I get to meet really amazing people and you're part of a community who are having a positive impact – that personally for me is really rewarding.

SCAN ME

I know every time I say to myself I'm too busy, I don't have time and end up volunteering – it's just the best feeling afterwards because I was able to give back in some shape or form. You don't need to take it from me, give it a go and you'll know exactly what I mean!"

Why is hearing in noise so difficult?

BY SANDRA RAZZAGHIPOUR

When we gather with friends and family around the dinner table, at a BBQ or at the local pub for a meal and a catch-up. In those situations, many people experience they have difficulties following the conversation as everything seems to get 'muddled up'. Why is this and what can be done?

If one struggles to hear and understand in social settings it bears the risk of 'tuning out' and social withdrawal may be a result. It is difficult for most people to communicate in situations with lots of surrounding noise.

The problem has multiple reasons. Human speech consists of many parts. Some parts like letters such as "M, N, L, A, O" are low in frequency but high in intensity so they carry well and have lots of power. These parts of the speech transfer volume from a speaker to a listener and they do that very well as they have plenty of energy. Other parts of speech like sounds such as "TH, S, C, F, SH," are essentially only pressed air through the teeth and tongue. These unvoiced sounds are very high in frequency and extremely low in energy. The purpose of those sounds is to transfer speech clarity and help to distinguish one word from another. Often the smallest part of a word makes all the difference. For example, "Faith" and "Face" – the difference between 'th' and 'ce' is very small. In most cases our eyes 'hear' these sounds better by lipreading than the ears really hear them. A major problem with these highly important part of speech is that they can be masked and literally squashed by louder sounds.

In social settings the "cocktail-party-effect" makes the noise level increase quickly. There is a little bit of music, that makes it harder to hear – so everyone starts speaking louder and as we 'shout' the energy of A, E, M, N, O etc. gets so high that they overpower the important sounds for clarity. So, in a situation with many people talking everything sounds really muffled and it's difficult to make out the words the other person is saying. Additionally, most age or noise related hearing losses start in the higher frequency only adding to those issues.

Some people with even a mild hearing loss choose not to go to functions and meetings anymore as they cannot participate in conversations. It is very tiring for the brain to constantly strain to try hearing what is being said and the choice to withdraw is quickly made.

But it does not have to be this way. There is help available! We want our community to hear well and have fun when they are in company and not feel lonely and isolated.

Inala Fair

The annual Inala Fair is on October 22nd and it promises to be a day of fun, entertainment and shopping for all the family.

Along with the fantastic art created at Inala, there will be performances from local schools, pony rides and an animal farm. If you are looking for a bargain the upcycled clothing boutique, white elephant and second-hand book stalls are the places to visit.

Founded in 1958, Inala is committed to providing the highest quality support for individuals living with a disability through a range of accommodation, day services and community support.

This year Inala received a Community Event Grant from Hornsby Council, which will assist in reducing the costs associated with running this large-scale community event. Long-term supporters of the Fair, the West Pennant Hills Lions Club will be in attendance to run the Chocolate Wheel and you can finish the day with some delicious lunch or afternoon tea in the café.

Inala has welcomed the community to its beautiful grounds in Cherrybrook for over 60 years. Inala CEO Alexandra Davis says everyone has been working hard to make it the best Fair yet. "Our participants and staff have been working for months to create individual and unique pieces to sell at this year's Fair. It is the perfect time to get in early and do some Christmas shopping for that one-of-a-kind gift.

"Inala is right opposite Cherrybrook metro train station so getting to the Fair is easy, and we encourage everyone in our local community to attend," she said.

Parking around Inala is limited and those wishing to attend are encouraged to consider public transport options.

The Inala Fair is on Sunday 22 October from 9am to 3pm. Inala is located at 99 Franklin Road, Cherrybrook. Follow Inala on Facebook, Instagram or jump on the website www.inala.org.au

Tonya Mercer with fellow Kellyville Breast Buddy Sue Woodward

Breast Buddies

Kellyville Breast Buddies is celebrating 10 years of supporting women with breast cancer.

Founder, Tonya Mercer, said she saw the need for a local support group after receiving her second breast cancer diagnosis.

"I thought I should join a support group," she said. "To my disappointment, a local group did not exist. I decided to join the BCNA's online network (Breast Cancer Network Australia)."

Tonya said she received a lot of support and information from BCNA and, sometime later, was invited to train to become a BCNA community liaison.

"This gave me the skills to start up a local support group and it didn't take long for our numbers to grow. We were lucky to be welcomed by the CWA to use their cottage at Kenthurst.

This meant more room and more privacy for our meetings.

"We have now been operating for 10yrs. We meet regularly for morning tea and provide support, friendship, information (and often laughter) to any woman with a breast cancer diagnosis- past or present.

"Those words from your doctor "you have breast cancer" can literally pull the rug from under you. Your life changes in an instant and you may feel anxious, apprehensive and isolated. "Our group is here to support you through diagnosis, treatment and beyond."

For more information about the group contact Tonya on 0401 858 114.

Natasha Lester's Latest Mystery Novel

BY JOSH KERWICK

Bestselling Australian author Natasha Lester will be visiting The Hills on Wednesday 11th October to spend an evening with readers after the recent release of her book The Disappearance of Astrid Bricard, an intergenerational mystery about Blythe Bricard finding answers to the puzzling disappearance of her mother Astrid and the infamous legacy of her grandmother Mizza.

Natasha is very keen to come to The Hills and meet new readers, where she'll be putting on a slideshow of her research from the 1910s and 1970s that she utilised while writing the novel, followed by a Q&A. She says: "I always make a slideshow because people love seeing the fashion and photographs of handwritten letters. But the highlight of publishing a book is sitting down, signing readers' books and hearing them tell their stories in the signing queue. You always find someone who's had a similar experience to one of your characters, and I love finding out that these stories really resonate with people."

The idea for the book had been in Natasha's head since 2020, inspired by how the media treats famous women in society. It was also around this time Natasha learned about the real-life Mitzah Bricard, whose story fascinated her. "That was when all the other things like the Battle of Versailles Fashion Show and the treatment of women in the media began to come together into a story that hangs around Mizza and her descendants, looking at what it's like to be the daughter and granddaughter of a famous muse. How do you carry that burden with you in your life?"

The book's focus on three distinct time periods is one of its most striking elements; one that Natasha found equally challenging and rewarding. "I did have to do quite a lot of research just to make sure I wasn't ignoring a lot of key events happening at the time, and I needed to get a real handle on what was happening," she says.

"But I really liked doing that. Because I like people to feel this could have actually happened." That sense of reality makes The Disappearance of Astrid Bricard a gripping read as Blythe fights to discover the truth behind her family lineage and rewrite history.

The Disappearance of Astrid Bricard is out now and is available for $32.99. Tickets for an Evening with Natasha Lester at the Pioneer Theatre are $9pp and available at www.eventbrite.com.au/e/an-evening-with-natasha-lester-tickets-718329732567?aff=oddtcreator

Voice to Parliament Voting Now Open

Pre-poll voting for the Voice to Parliament Referendum is now open ahead of the official October 14th date. The Referendum is asking every Australian to answer either Yes or No to the question of enshrining an Indigenous Voice in the Australian Constitution – if passed, an advisory body of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people is to be formed that will be able to make representations to the Australian Parliament on ATSI matters.

The idea for the Voice came after the Gillard Government’s recommendations on recognising ATSI people in the Constitution was rejected in 2012. Following this, discussions between policymakers and political thinkers formed the idea for the Voice, which aimed to unite Aboriginal advocates and constitutional conservatives.

The proposition was endorsed by nearly 250 Aboriginal elders in 2017’s Uluru Statement from the Heart, which said: “We call for the establishment of a First Nations voice enshrined in the Constitution.”

Once they were elected in May 2022, the Albanese Labor government promised that a Referendum to decide the Voice to Parliament would be held within the term, asking Australians if they approved of the proposed amendment to the Constitution. Since then, there has been much debate both nationally and locally about the Voice and the changes it’s looking to make to the Constitution.

On Thursday 20th July earlier this year, India Club held a debate for members of the Hills community to hear both sides of the argument. Parramatta MP Andrew Charlton, constitutional lawyer Shireen Morris and Gidgee Group Director Sean Gordon spoke passionately for the Yes vote by stressing its importance in being able to assist Indigenous Australians. Meanwhile, Mitchell MP Alex Hawke, Castle Hill member Mark Hodges and Warren Mundine AO cast doubts on the necessity of the Voice.

The Yes Vote puts emphasis on the fact that it is a recommendation from ATSI people and will lead to tangible results through recognition, more practical results and ensuring a way for Parliament to listen to Indigenous voices. The Yes campaign states that the current approach to Indigenous affairs isn’t working, and that an alternative in the Voice is necessary.

The No Vote finds the idea of an Indigenous voice legally risky to Australia’s system of government, while also not being the solution needed to help Indigenous Australians. The No Campaign argues that there are not enough details on the Voice and that it is divisive and permanent.

The AEC (Australian Electoral Commission) website Your Answer Matters, has a wealth of information including a link to the official Yes/No pamphlet, where to vote in the Hills to Hawkesbury area and a podcast that covers the process ahead of the Referendum. Visit <https://www.aec.gov.au/referendums/>

Have Your Say on the Currawong Reserve Design

Currawong Reserve in West Pennant Hills will soon receive upgrades to make it a popular destination for walkers, cyclists, and wildlife enthusiasts.

The 5.1-hectare park, home to the endangered Blue Gum High Forest, is proposed to feature a 160-metre boardwalk and a 936-metre shared pathway.

Council will also improve Bellamys Creek's banks and create small ponds for local bird and water life.

Residents can provide feedback on the project until Friday 20 October via Council's website by searching 'Currawong Reserve'.

Snake sighted? Don't be frightened

Spring has arrived and as the weather gets warmer and we draw closer to summer, the chances of spotting a snake will likely occur.

Just keep alert as you go on your daily walks and if you spot one, give it the personal space it needs. Remember, it's their environment too and it's their home.

If you spot one on your property, please don't try to catch or handle it yourself. Instead, contact WIRES on 1300 094 737 or Sydney Wildlife on 9413 4300 and a professional will be sent out to relocate the snake for you.

WEXPO

The Hills is having its first-ever WEXPO on Wednesday 11 October 2023. The event is an opportunity for business owners to network with each other and community groups, as well as attend FREE workshops.

There will be up to 40 exhibitors at the Pioneer Theatre and adjoining areas. There are also several special speakers who will be providing presentations throughout the day.

To find out more, register for a workshop or register for the special speaker events, go to Council's website and search 'WEXPO'.

Cumberland State Forest

The Cumberland State Forest is one of the most magical places in North West Sydney. It is Australia's only metropolitan forest and consists of 40 hectares of natural forest offering a tranquil experience for visitors away from the hustle and bustle of modern city life.

Hidden within Cumberland Forest sits Tree Tops Adventure. The Hills is one of 15 Tree Tops parks around Australia offering exciting and challenging obstacle courses high up in the tree canopies. Tree Tops Adventure The Hills is a 5 minute walk from the administration centre that takes you along a peaceful forest trail until you reach your destination and lay eyes on the obstacle courses for the first time, evoking different emotions from different people. For my brave, thrill-seeking eight- year-olds, there was sheer excitement at tackling the courses especially the harder and higher ones whilst my reaction was slight trepidation knowing completing the courses would mean facing my phobia of heights! The rope courses are constructed from wooden platforms sitting around the tree trunks, to ensure the native trees aren't damaged and continue to grow. However, between each tree platform is a different obstacle that needs to be completed to reach the next platform. Obstacles include different length zip lines, cargo nets, tight ropes, wobbling bridges, ladders, tunnels, suspended rafts, trapezes and Tarzan swings just to name a few! The obstacle courses range in difficulty levels from easy, medium, hard and extreme with each course getting more and more tricky as your confidence and skills grow. There are also junior courses for children under 8 that only require parent supervision from the ground whilst the harder courses require children under 16 to be with a participating parent.

Each session is 2.5 hours long after a 30-minute induction session which includes putting on harnesses and helmets as well as a safety training session with the very friendly and helpful Tree Tops staff. After this you're on your way to swinging, leaping, climbing and flying through the beautiful Cumberland State Forest as you navigate the various obstacle courses. The views of the Forest up high are amazing and reinforce the importance of the Forest for our rapidly growing community in this part of Sydney. Tree Tops was challenging and we were absolutely exhausted by the end of our session however, my eight-year-olds can't wait to go again and explore more of the more difficult courses! We also look forward to experiencing different courses at Tree Tops Western Sydney Parklands as well as Tree Tops Yarramundi located at the foot of the Blue Mountains when it re-opens. For more information on Tree Tops Adventure The Hills go to <https://treetopsadventure.com.au/location/nsw-the-hills/>

Lynwood Pro AM Event Success

The recent Stockland | The Gables 2023 Lynwood Pro Am Event at Lynwood Golf & Country Club was a spectacular success and is set to become an annual fixture.

More than 120 golfers took part in the inaugural three-day event hosted by CHRG's Lynwood Golf & Country Club in partnership with the PGA of Australia.

The highly anticipated event, held from September 27th to 29th, featured a substantial professional prize purse of $50,000.

More than 60 professionals joined forces with an equal number of enthusiastic amateurs, presenting a unique opportunity to play side by side with some of Australia's finest golfers.

Matthew Bailey, General Manager at Lynwood Golf & Country Club said The Stockland | The Gables 2023 Lynwood Pro Am received incredible support from Lynwood's membership, solidifying Lynwood's significance for golf in the region and providing lasting memories of all involved.

"It was a huge relief to finally hold our inaugural event," he said. "Lynwood discussed holding a Pro-am event back in 2020. Seven floods and two lockdowns later, we were able to hold our inaugural event."

"It was a great feeling to showcase our course, after three years of setbacks. The maintenance team presented a beautiful golf course. The Pro Shop ran a flawless golf event and our clubhouse team provided an exceptional hospitality experience for our Sponsors, Members and players.

"I look forward to holding an even bigger event next year."

The winners of the event included Brian Dockery in the Amateur category and Matt Millar in the Professional category – each demonstrating exceptional skill and sportsmanship on the course.

Millar, a PGA Tour of Australasia veteran shot back to back 67s to score a four-shot win.

It was his first visit to Lynwood and told PGA Australia: "I was really blown away by the layout."

Special activities during the event included the thrilling $100,000 hole-in-one prize (which was not won) and an exclusive Sponsors Welcome Dinner, held right after an action-packed day on Wednesday, September 27th.

Daisy Blooms in Cactus Flower

BY JOSH KERWICK

Watching her performance as Toni in the Pavilion Theatre's hilarious production of Cactus Flower, it's hard to believe that it's only Daisy Alexis' third play with the iconic local company. Daisy shines brightly as Toni throughout the entirety of the play, bringing tangible energy and life to a character she describes as "quite eccentric and super kooky. She's this wild person that's trying to navigate this situation, but also has a lot of kindness in the things that she does."

Though Cactus Flower is Daisy's third production with the Pavilion, the 18-year-old Hills local has been acting for a long time – technically since she was a toddler. "I had my debut in a Wiggles commercial at the age of three, which 'kickstarted' my career!" she jokes. "Not that I remember it much. But I do have the video!"

From there, a passion for theatre grew in Daisy as her parents took her to theatre productions throughout her youth. "I think having that exposure really influenced me, and my love for it just grew from there," she says. "I did some local musical theatre productions when I was 13, and that helped me build my confidence and go 'This is what I really like to do.'"

While finishing Year 12 last year, Daisy was cast in her first Pavilion Theatre production Picasso at the Lapin Agile, a mix she describes as quite balanced. "I would study and do my exams throughout the day, and then I would come to the theatre in the night, and I just loved it. I was getting to do what I love and that just kind of balanced everything else."

Earlier this year, Daisy was part of the Pavilion's production of Funny Money, where she acted alongside Cactus Flower's director Stephen Snars who she was talking to about the then-upcoming production. "I was thinking about auditioning," Daisy says, "and I asked him if he could send me the script, I'd have a read."

"But I approached him and said 'You know what, I'm actually going to audition for the next one.' And he sat me down for 40 minutes and ended up convincing me why it would be really great to do. And then I was convinced, so I auditioned for it, and then got the role!"

Daisy was drawn to Toni and Cactus Flower as a real opportunity to build a character. "We hadn't really had much opportunity to do that in previous shows, to sort of have a deeper relationship with the people that make up the world Toni lives in," she comments. "So that was quite exciting. I spent a lot of time reading the script, and rereading and rereading... so I could pull out all the information I could about the character and understand the relationship and world that she lives in."

Having the Pavilion as a space to explore that character, as well as have a blast performing, is something that Daisy really values. "Stephen was really about bringing out the fun of the play, and getting to play with the cast has just been amazing," she says. "I owe a lot of thanks to him as a director, and how much fun we're having as a cast. I think the audience will be able to see that, that there's so much love that's gone into it from both cast and crew, and I think they'll really love it."

Make sure to see Daisy and the rest of her terrific cast in Cactus Flower, which is running until October 14th at the Pavilion Theatre at Castle Hill Showground. Tickets are $30pp for adults, or $25pp concession and are available at <https://paviliontheatre.org.au/cactusflower/>.

LABOR DELAYS HOSPITAL UNTIL END OF DECADE

The Minns Labor Government has delayed the completion of the Rouse Hill Hospital until late 2029.

Despite campaigning extensively on their promise of a new hospital, the Labor Government has betrayed the trust of the voters of north western Sydney, the fastest growing area in NSW. The new completion date of 2029 indicated in the recent budget papers will deliver the Rouse Hill Hospital 5-years later than the timeframe committed to by the previous Liberal Government, who were on track to deliver the Stage One of the hospital in late 2024. The original $300m commitment which was fully funded included vital services which are needed now - such as an emergency department. I will keep up the fight to get our hospital delivered according to our original timeframe of 2024.

OCTOBER IS SMALL BUSINESS MONTH

It's the opportunity for small-business people to come together, connect and collaborate and for NSW to celebrate small business!

Small businesses are the bread and butter of our community. From the cafes and restaurants that feed us, to the physios and gyms that keep us healthy - NSW runs on small business. THE VOICE: IF YOU'RE UNSURE, FIND OUT MORE

BY MICHELLE ROWLAND MP

Since 2010, I have had the great privilege of representing the good people of Greenway – the federal electorate that sits in Sydney's North West.

We're a unique part of Australia, known for being one of the most culturally diverse electorates in the nation. In fact, our suburb of Blacktown is home to a total of 133 nationalities – the third highest nationally – and we have the highest number of different languages spoken at home (72) in Australia.

So, at a time when our nation is deciding how to vote at a once-in-a-generation Referendum to enshrine an Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Voice to Parliament, many people have asked me how this is unfolding for Australia's culturally and linguistically diverse communities, such as those in Greenway.

And perhaps, the response is not what you might expect. In my experience, people who have come to this nation in the pursuit of a better life have great aspirations – not only for themselves and their families, but for Australia as a whole.

Regardless of where they or their parents were born, Australia is their home and they have a sense of responsibility in making it an even better place to live. The Australians I meet overwhelmingly want to deliver the best outcomes for themselves, their neighbours and for all Australians.

That's why, when Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people presented the Uluru Statement from the Heart to the Australian people, the overwhelming majority of constituents I spoke to were listening, eager to learn more.

Now, as the Referendum date fast approaches diverse communities in my electorate have mobilised among themselves to best understand what this Referendum could mean for not only them, and for all people who call Australia home.

How it will create a better future for all of us.

They have important questions.

What will the Voice look like? What will a Voice do – for First Nations Australians and all Australians?

The Voice will be an independent committee made up of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people from every state and territory, the Torres Strait and regional and remote communities.

The Voice is an idea that came from Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people – as expressed in the Uluru Statement from the Heart. The Voice is about advice. Advice that will lead to better outcome in health, education, jobs and housing.

When governments listen to people on the ground they make better decisions, get better results and deliver better value for money. This will unify Australia – and move our country forward together.

Whether it's over a community Zoom call, a group Facebook chat, discussions at a place of worship, or an in-person panel with guest speakers, I've noticed our multicultural communities creating their own opportunities to learn more about the Voice Referendum.

Sikh Youth Australia is just one example. Just a couple of weeks ago, they hosted "Inclusive Dialogues: The Voice Referendum Explored Through a First Nations Lens". This event was moderated by popular hip-hop artist L-FRESH the Lion.

Immigrant Women's Speakout and the Women's Electoral Lobby held a similar forum, called "Western Sydney Women for Yes" and Australia's East Asian community have created a group called "Desis for Yes" to educate community members about the Referendum in-language.

The learning-focused local activation we're seeing in multicultural communities in Greenway and beyond puts into practice a simple but crucial concept as we approach the Referendum: if you're unsure, find out more.

And for so many people, when we do find out more, we understand what we are saying Yes to – nothing extra, just an equal chance.

Because after all, Indigenous Australians want the same things for their children as we do: staying healthy, doing well at school, finding a job they love – leading fulfilling lives.

Voting YES is a way forward, for the entire nation.

On the 14th of October we have an opportunity to unify the nation, and make history.

To secure the best chance yet to ensure people have better lives. All with a single word – Yes. And if you're unsure, find out more.

MENTAL HEALTH MONTH

Did you know that one in five Australians experience a mental illness in any year and compounding to this, is the confronting statistic that about 54% of people do not seek treatment?

Looking back four decades ago, mental health and wellbeing had such a stigma attached to it. Rarely did anyone seek treatment. It was considered a weakness, so people withdrew, didn't acknowledge their need for such aid and rarely resolved the anxiety, grief, depression and trauma that presented them in life. In those days, we compartmentalised our feelings. Veterans came back from war torn engagements and were told to 'just get on with life'. Mothers experiencing post-natal depression saw it as a weakness. For so long, we believed that time would heal everything, when in fact it perpetuates misery, detaches us from loved ones and creates a real feeling of isolation that comes with the rollercoaster of our mental wellbeing.

Fast forward to 2023, we have identified October as Mental Health Month. A stark difference to the hidden landscape that was apparent four decades ago. Knowing where to go to seek help is the first step to recovery and governments have invested over the years in an area that is still underfunded.

If you live in Hawkesbury, do you know where to go to get help on improving your mental health and wellbeing?

Here are a few suggested contacts:

- visit your GP and enquire about a 'Mental Health Care Plan'
- Hope4U Foundation – 1800 HOPE4U (1800 467348)

Some further contacts:

- NSW Government Mental Health Line – 1800 011 511 or www.health.nsw.gov.au/mentalhealth/Pages/mental-health-line.aspx
- Lifeline – 13 11 14 or www.lifeline.org.au/
- Beyond Blue – 1300 22 4636 or www.beyondblue.org.au/
- Headspace – <https://headspace.org.au/>

Just as we look after our physical health, it is important to nurture our mind. Refreshingly, there has been a shift in attitude over the last decade. The acceptance of the need to care and maintain our mental health and wellbeing has accelerated. Now that's a good thing, don't you think?

We all have a role to play. Look out for yourself and look out for your neighbour, especially during this Mental Health Month.

HAVE YOUR SAY ON FLOOD INSURANCE

As our minds turn to bushfires and being prepared for what looks to be a hot, dry spring and summer, it might seem an odd time to writing about the 2022 floods.

But there is a lot to be learned from floods the Hawkesbury experienced, especially when it comes to improving affordability and availability of insurance. It's clear the current insurance arrangements have not served everyone well and a new government inquiry needs to hear from people who flooded, about their insurance experience.

I have been appointed to the Standing Economics Committee, along with the Member for Calare, Andrew Gee and Queensland MP

Shayne Neumann, for the inquiry, and we want to make sure our communities voices are heard.

That's why I'm urging Hawkesbury residents to share their flood insurance story – even if you weren't insured.

There are two ways to take part: you can take a survey or make your own individual submission to tell your story in more detail – even if it occurred in one of the earlier flood events.

The inquiry is looking at this issue from all angles and your contribution will help guide the questions we ask insurers and other stakeholders, and ultimately help shape the inquiry's recommendations to the Albanese Government.

Whatever your experience was, good, bad, easy or frustrating, or if you weren't insured at all, we want to hear about it so we can make the system work better for our communities.

I really encourage everyone to share your insights with the Committee so we can get the specific examples of the issues people have faced when dealing with insurance companies before and after floods.

To complete the survey or make a submission head to https://www.aph.gov.au/Parliamentary_Business/Committees/House/Economics/FloodInsuranceInquiry Or simply google "Flood insurance inquiry".

FUN & FRIENDS ON OUR WATERWAYS

Living, as we do, in the Hills and Hawkesbury areas we are fortunate to have some amazing waterways to enjoy. The majestic Hawkesbury River and its tributaries such as Berowra Creek and the Colo River have provided us with a means of transportation in our early days and beauty spots for relaxation.

Some thirty years ago or more, the late Gordon Mandin, and his wife, Joan, operated the historic ferry "Macquarie Princess" as a cruise vessel along Berowra Creek and the Hawkesbury. My wife and I had some great trips on this vessel and one recollection I have is when I had some family members from interstate and their friends join us on a cruise during which Gordon allowed me into the wheelhouse and for me to take the wheel of this historic ferry for a part of the way along Berowra Creek. We got to know Gordon and Joan from our days with Sydney Hills Tourism which, at the time, was the Tourism body representing tourist operators in the Hills district with my wife being the Secretary of the group.

Amongst other members of the tourism group were Tom and Hilda McQuillan who, along with their son Simon, operated "Able Hawkesbury Houseboats" at Wisemans Ferry. Tom, I also discovered, once was a ferryman in my old hometown and birthplace of Bristol, England in his younger days.

During the late 1980s it was decided that the Christmas party for the Tourism body be held onboard one of Tom and Hilda's larger houseboats in the middle of the river.

It was a great evening where we enjoyed some of our great local seafood. The locally caught prawns were amongst the best I have ever tasted. That night Tom amazed us all by drinking a glass of water straight from the river, proving to us that the water was so pure.

A couple of years later, my wife and I decided to hire a houseboat for a week from Tom and Hilda and cruise along the beautiful Hawkesbury and MacDonald rivers and watch the world go by as we relaxed on board. Well, that is what we thought we would do; however, I was enjoying myself so much that I wanted to see as much as I could of the river. During the week I wanted to explore every little bay or inlet that I could see whilst my wife just wanted a restful river trip and pull over to enjoy a relaxing lunch or meal every now and then. For me, as soon as lunch was over, I was upping anchor and at the wheel of the boat and away.

Tom had said that we had enough fuel on board to last us for the week we had hired the houseboat. He said that he had only one customer in the time that he had been operating the business who had ever run out of fuel. Little did he know of my desire to explore and discover every nook and cranny of the Hawkesbury that I could find. As a result, our trip became a series of memorable incidents.

There was the getting stuck on a sand bank near the Hawkesbury River Bridge at Brooklyn as the tide was retreating and getting up at 2.30am to move the houseboat once we realised the tide had come in and we could float free. There were also problems when travelling near oyster leases when you had to be careful that you had sufficient room not to be carried over them by the tide. I had failed to keep watch over the fuel gauge as I discovered near Spencer when the vessel's motor came to a stop. This in the days before we had mobile phones.

My wife was not pleased when she had to take the "tinny" and row ashore, clamber over a rickety jetty with 4 out of 5 planks missing and find a phone somewhere out in the sticks. We were in luck when she found a weekender where the owner was just locking up to go back to his home in the suburbs and who had a phone in the home. She telephoned Tom who then sent his son, Simon, out for the hour-long trip by boat to where we were situated on the Hawkesbury with a can of fuel. My wife has never let me forget that holiday!

Four Hills Little Athletes at Australian High-Performance Camp

Four Hills youngsters have made the most of their 2023 Coles Little Athletics National High-Performance Camp held at the Gold Coast this week.

Matilda Webb and Caitlyn Martin from Winston Hills Little Athletics, Jack Proudfoot (Hills District Athletics) and Brendan Armstrong (Cherrybrook Athletics) were among more than 75 other top performing athletes born in 2009 who were invited to compete at the October 1-4 camp.

Matilda is aiming to do well in walking, a discipline which is not as easy as it looks. Australia have a strong international reputation in walking and Matilda could be our next star. She emerged champion in the 1500m walk at the 2023 Coles Australia LA Championships.

Her Winston Hills LA team-mate Caitlyn Martin, who lives in Baulkham Hills, finished second in the Coles Australian LA Championships in the high jump.

Jack Proudfoot is the state under-14 100m champion who finished second at the 2023 Australian LA Championships while Brendan is the reigning 1500m champion at the Sydney North Regional Championships. All these youngsters are offered the opportunity to raise their careers thanks to the intensive programs at the camp.

All participants were chosen on their performances at the recent 2023 Coles Australian Little Athletics Championships and state events. The camp offered the athletes the opportunity to improve themselves, on the track, in recovery, preparation and psychology.

They were also made aware of the process that is required to assist with their own development, in the high-performance pathway.

The youngsters were mentored and supported by former Australian stars who shared their experiences during coaching sessions. Importantly, these international athletes gave invaluable tips regarding their journeys from juniors to Australian representation. Athletes took part in training sessions, workshops, recovery sessions, presentations, and social activities onsite.

"I am always very pleased to be able to contribute to the development of up and coming Little Athletes and look forward to meeting them at the camp," said Australia's first Olympic heptathlete champion, Glynis Nunn OAM, the driving force behind the camp since it began 11 years ago.

Nothing gives me more pleasure than to see Little Athletes performing at the best and enjoying themselves at the same time."

Caitlyn Martin

Matilda Webb

Jack Proudfoot

Brendan Armstrong

Coles Little Athletics Australia CEO Myles Foreman commented that their camps are designed "to help our next generation of athletes get the extra training and mentoring they need to take them to the next level in their chosen event.

"With the support of some of Australia's leading coaches and presenters, our Little Athletes will leave the camp ready to set a new personal best."

Families like Connells are the beating hearts of community sports

Community sports rely heavily on family and volunteers to make things work, and there is no better example in the Hills than the Connell family.

Parents Dylan and Karen Connell, who were athletes during their schooling and beyond in other sports, are committed volunteers at Cherrybrook Athletics thanks to their children Zoe, 13, and Immy, 10 who have been training here for the past four years.

Both Dylan and Karen are age managers at CA which has produced several Australian and international champions over the years.

Zoe, who also plays football, joined CA along with her younger sibling. Zoe has competed in discus at the regional level while Immy, who is also a gymnast and football player, is the state discus champion for the past two years. She has also competed at NSW level in shot put and high jump. Immy underlined her growing confidence by winning gold in discus and silver in shot put at the recent Athletics NSW Primary Schools challenge.

Dylan previously competed in Little Athletics at Kuring-Gai for a few years and also represented his high school while Karen represented her high school and was school age champion in athletics but never did Little Athletics herself, which she regretted.

When their children started doing athletics, they and CA – which is open to athletes of all ages, with a strong Seniors/Masters team - strongly encouraged Dylan to get back into it despite the long layoff.

Karen then saw other parents doing it and said to herself: "I can do this too!"

Dylan's first event for the club was the NSW Masters where he won gold in his 40-44 age group in shot put while breaking the all-time club record. He continues to break club records while competing in Masters Nationals and Masters Indoor State and Nationals throwing events, and is an inspiration to other members.

Karen is keen complete for the club for the first time as she pushes herself to reach new heights in her renewed athletic career.

"From the time the kids started at Cherrybrook we were always happy to help," Karen said. "Since then, we both became Age Managers as we understand athletics. It's great to be involved at the grassroots level, teaching young athletes basic skills and watching them progress in both ability and confidence. The girls have made some great friends through the club and so have we!"

They love Cherrybrook Athletics Club, with Dylan saying: "It's a very welcoming club where people of all ages and abilities and able to participate and compete. Friday nights are always fun and a great end to the week, no sunburn either!"

With a growing number of children and their parents all competing for Cherrybrook Athletics, the Connells encourage people of all ages to give athletics a go: "Don't worry about age and fitness, have a crack at it and see what happens!"

Registrations are still open for all ages – young or old - through Cherrybrook Athletics (<https://www.cherrybrookathletics.org.au/>)

Hills to Hawkesbury

Community News

We're thrilled with our advertising partnership with the Hills to Hawkesbury magazine. It's incredibly easy, and the results speak for themselves. The week after every release, we consistently see a boost in our website traffic and a higher demand in quote requests.

We have clients who first called us after seeing our ad, and have since turned into regular customers & supporters. We are proud to be a part of it!
